

Terms of use for standards and standards packages

The standards contents of the standards packages "Machine Safety" and "Machine Safety Plus" as well as individual standards, hereinafter referred to as "standards packages" and "standards", are protected by copyright by Austrian Standards plus GmbH (ASI). According to a separate agreement, IBF holds the worldwide distribution rights for these standards data. In addition to the conditions listed below, the General Terms and Conditions of ASI shall apply. These can be found at www.austrian-standards.at/en

- 1. Use of standards and standards packages within the scope of a Safexpert first license
With the purchase of standards and/or standards packages in connection with a Safexpert first license, the customer is entitled to store the standards on a central server as part of the Safexpert installation. When using Safexpert as a floating license, the customer is entitled to access the standards from different clients once simultaneously (one user at the same time).
- 2. Use of standards and standards packages within the scope of Safexpert follow-up licenses
With the purchase of a Safexpert multi-user system (first license + follow-up licenses), the customer is entitled to access standards and standards packages simultaneously in the number of acquired usage rights. The so called "Network license" regulates the authorization for simultaneous access for several users in the annual subscription. Any other simultaneous provision of standards and standards contents - even in extracts - is not permitted.
- 3. Printing of standards and standards contents
Standards and standards contents may be printed in the number of licenses purchased. Contents are only permitted for internal use within the company by the user(s).
- 4. Other regulations
Any use beyond this, such as reprinting or duplication as well as the inclusion in other media, networks or data carriers, is only permitted with the express written consent of ASI! If the customer intends to use the standards or standards packages on more than the authorized workstations agreed upon when the contract was concluded, a corresponding supplementary agreement on the use is required.

Please contact the IBF sales team with special requests regarding the further use of the standards data:

IBF Solutions GmbH
Bahnhofstraße 8
6682 Vils
Phone: +43 (0) 5677 53 53 - 30
sales@ibf-solutions.com
www.ibf-solutions.com